A. Ayush Systems

Ayush include Ayurveda, Yoga & Naturopathy, Unani, Siddha, Sowa Rigpa and Homoeopathy. Ayurveda is the oldest system with a documented history of its practice for more than 5000 years whereas Homoeopathy is in practice in India for around 200 years. These systems are being practised in the country with diverse preferences of people and infrastructural facilities. Ayush systems of medicine include Indian Systems of Medicine and Homoeopathy.

The Indian System of Medicine is of great lineage. It is the culmination of Indian thought of medicine which represents a way of healthy living valued with a long and unique cultural history and epitomizes the vedic guidance of 'Let noble thoughts come to us from every side'. Thus, one can see an amalgamation of the best of influences that came in from the contact of different sources of knowledge. While Ayurveda, Siddha and Yoga has been a part of ancient vedic tradition our scriptures and associated with sages like Charaka, Sushruta, Agastya and Patanjali, assimilating practices of other civilizations enriched this tradition. Unani Medicine has roots in Greece, Homoeopathy in Germany, and Naturopathy in the 19th century Natural Cure Movement of Europe. In parallel to the multifaceted cultural evolution of our country, Ayush medicinal systems have evolved over centuries blessed with a plethora of traditional medicinal practices.

(i) Ayurveda:

Ayurveda is the time tested traditional system of medicine of India that explains the cause of different miseries, imparts the knowledge of life and advocates promotion of physical, mental and spiritual wellbeing. It is believed that Ayurveda is originated out of Vedas (particularly Rigveda and Atharvaveda). Numerous references of health, diseases, their treatment as well as use of non-materialistic things such as sunrays, fasting, mantra etc; are available in these Vedas. The knowledge of Ayurveda was first comprehensively documented in the compendia like 'Brahma Samhita', 'Ágniveshatantra', 'SusrutSamhita', 'Bhela Samhita' etc.

According to Ayurveda, health is considered as a basic pre-requisite for achieving the goals of life - Dharma (duties), Arth (finance), Kama (materialistic desires) and Moksha (salvation). Ayurveda describes that Satva (mind), Atma (real self) Shareer (the body) collectively known as Tri-danda, is essential for the existence of the man. This conscious combination supports the man like a tri-pod supports the table, and is the one for which Ayurveda is flourished across the ages. Ayurveda states that human is formed up of five basic elements i.e. Pancha Mahabhootas, namely: Prithvi (earth), Jal (water), Agni (fire), Vayu (air) and Akash (ether) and real self. These five elements are the basic building blocks of Tridosha - three groups of factors which participate in the health and disease known as the Vata (ether + air), Pitta (fire) and Kapha (earth + water), Saptadhatu-seven tissue systems explained in Ayurveda, and Mala- metabolic end products. Furthermore, it also explains the individuals' integral relationship with the nature and opines that human body is affected by the daily cosmic changes, seasons and environment and therefore describes daily regimen, seasonal regimen and dietary concepts for a healthy life. This indicates the system approach of Ayurveda i.e. the interaction of different systems within the body and interaction in between body and environment. Ayurveda, being an applied science and considering the limitations for printing in ancient time, all the ancient texts have concentrated mainly on applied aspects. Understanding of 'Functional Anatomy' i.e. Shareer is the unique contribution of Ayurveda to the modern science which has great potential for new discoveries in system Biology.

(ii) Unani:

Unani Medicine (Tibb.) is a medical system with comprehensive solution for the various states of human body providing preventive, promotive, curative and rehabilitative health care. This system has evolved in different parts of the world by imbibing observations and experiments of many civilizations.

The fundamentals, diagnosis and treatment modalities of the system are based on scientific principles. The basic framework of this system is based on the Hippocratic theory of four Humours, according to which any disturbance in the equilibrium of humours causes disease and therefore the treatment aims at restoring the humoral equilibrium. The system also believes that Medicatrix Naturae (Tabiat Mudabbira-i-Badan) is the supreme power, which controls all the physiological functions of the body, provides resistance against diseases and helps in healing naturally.

The most important principle of Unani Medicine is temperament (Mizāj) which classifies human beings, diets, drugs, etc. into four qualitative types: hot and dry, hot and wet, cold and wet & cold and dry. The pathological shift in the temperament causes disease, which is cured by reversing the abnormal temperament to the normal using drugs and diets of opposite temperament. The four humours (Akhlāt), i.e. blood (Dam), phlegm (Balgham), yellow bile (Safrā') and black bile (Sawdā') are the liquid fundamental substances of living things possessing ability to support the biological processes, i.e. life, nutrition, growth, sensation, movement and reproduction. Human temperament is commonly denoted by the dominant humour i.e. sanguineous (Damwi), phlegmatic (Balghami), choleric (Safrāwi) and melancholic (Sawdāwi), which can be correlated with the temperaments of diets, drugs, environmental factors, etc.

The Unani system of medicine includes the science of maintaining health (Hifzān-I Sihhat) which lay importance to the understanding and maintenance of health in a positive and individualized manner with the help of different guidelines. Some of the commonly used guidelines are summarized as: Regimens for Seasons (Tadābir-i Mavasim), Regimens for Age-groups (Tadābir-i Asnān), Regimens for Pregnancy (Tadābir-i Hamal), Regimens for Travellers (Tadābir-i Musāfir) etc.

(iii) Siddha:

Siddha is one of the ancient comprehensive medical systems in India. The healing science encompasses the physical, mental, social, and spiritual wellbeing by adapting simple lifestyle practices, dietary regimens, safe and effective drugs of origin from plants, mineral and animal. Siddha medicine focuses on preventive, promotive and rejuvenate methods for maintaining good health, defying ageing and curative procedures including cleansing therapies and external therapies. The strength of the Siddha medical system lies in its holistic approach for a healthy living.

The Siddha system is evolved based on ninety-six tools or principles (Thathuvas) which include physical, physiological, psychological, and intellectual aspects of every human being. The main principle in treating diseases through Siddha system is by normalizing the altered vital life factors (Vali, Azhal, Aiyam). Kayakarpam called rejuvenation elixir in Siddha medicine helps in the prevention, treatment of ailments and to maintain healthy long life preserving memory, intelligence, healthy ageing. The Siddha diagnostic methodology is very peculiar as they assist in diagnosis and prognosis of diseases through Wrist Circumferential Sign (Manikkadai Nool) and eight vital tests (Ennvagai Thervu) such as pulse reading, examination of the tongue, complexion of body, study of voice, examination of eyes, urine examination, (Neer Kuri & Neikrug), examination of faeces, status of the sensation of human body.

The main sources of preparation in Siddha Medicine are Plant origin (Mooligai vaguppu), Inorganic/Organic substances (Thathu vaguppu) - metals and minerals and Animal products (Jeeva vaguppu). Siddha system classified medications into 64 pharmaceutical dosage forms of which 32 are internal medications and 32 are external medication and treatment procedures. Siddha medicines with long shelf life such as Parpam, Chenduram, Chunnam form with higher efficacy, smaller dosage, easy palatability, long shelf life, easy absorption and sustainable quicker results as the nano particles aid in better bio-availability and bio-equivalence. Distinctive external treatment procedures such as Pressure Manipulation Therapy (Varmam), Physical Manipulation Therapy (Thokkanam), Bone setting (Otivu Murivu Maruthuvam) for neuromuscular degeneration disorders and pain management

(iv) Yoga:

The word "Yoga" comes from the Sanskrit word "yuj" which means "to unite or integrate." Yoga is about the union of a person's own consciousness and the universal consciousness. It is primarily a way of life, first propounded by Maharshi Patanjali in systematic form Yogsutra. The discipline of Yoga consists of eight components namely, restraint (Yama), observance of austerity (Niyama), physical postures (Asana), breathing control (Pranayam), restraining of sense organs (Pratyahar), contemplation (Dharna), meditation (Dhyan) and Deep meditation (Samadhi). These steps in the practice of Yoga have the potential to elevate social and personal behavior and to promote physical health by better circulation of oxygenated blood in the body, restraining the sense organs and there by inducing tranquility and serenity of mind and spirit. The practice of Yoga has also been found to be useful in the prevention of certain psychosomatic diseases and improves individual resistance and ability to endure stressful situations. Yoga is a promotive, preventive rehabilitative and curative intervention for overall enhancement of health status. A number of postures are described in Yoga literature to improve health, to prevent diseases and to cure illness. The physical postures are required to be chosen judiciously and have to be practiced in the correct way so that the benefits of prevention of disease, promotion of health and therapeutic use can be derived from them.

The United Nations General Assembly had declared June 21st as the International Yoga Day on 11th December, 2014. Every year the Prime Minister of India, leads the nation in celebration of IDY.

(v) Naturopathy:

Naturopathy is rooted in the healing wisdom of many cultures and times based on the principle of natural healing. The principles and practices of Naturopathy are integrated in the life style of the people with emphasis on living close to nature.

Naturopathy is a cost effective non pharmacological therapies involving the use of natural materials for health care and healthy living. It is based on the theories of vitality, boosting the self-healing capacity of the body and the principles of healthy living. Naturopathy is a system of natural treatment and also a way of life widely practiced, globally accepted and recognized for health preservation and management of illnesses. Naturopathy advocates living in harmony with constructive principles of nature on the physical, mental, social and spiritual planes. It has great promotive, preventive, curative as well as restorative potentials.

Naturopathy promotes healing by stimulating the body's inherent power to regain health with the help of five elements of nature – Earth, Water, Air, Fire and Ether. It is a call to “Return to Nature” and to resort to a simple way of living in harmony with the self, society and environment. Naturopathy advocates ‘Better Health with usage of Natural therapeutics, fasting, diet, yoga and physical culture’. It is reported to be effective in chronic, allergic, autoimmune, degenerative and stress related disorders. The theory and practice of Naturopathy are based on a holistic view point with particular attention to simple eating and living habits, adoption of purificatory measures, use of hydrotherapy, cold packs, mud packs, baths, massages, fasting etc.

(vi) Homoeopathy:

"Homoeopathy" was introduced as a scientific system of drug therapeutics by a German Physician, Dr. Christian Frederick Samuel Hahnemann in 1805. While translating a medical treatise by Scottish physician and chemist, William Cullen, from English to German, in 1790, he came across a foot note under Cinchona that attributed its fever curing property to the astringent (decongestant) qualities of the drug. Being sceptical of Cullen's remarks concerning the effect of Cinchona for curing malaria, Hahnemann experimented its effect on himself by taking repeated doses of cinchona tincture and experienced fever, shivering and joint pains: symptoms similar to those of malarial fever. After series of experiments, Hahnemann concluded that a drug that could produce certain symptoms in healthy individuals could also cure similar disease symptoms, in accordance with some hidden, natural laws of similars as had been vaguely perceived by ancient physicians. This led to the coining of the word "homoeo-pathy" (which comes from the Greek: ὁμοιοῦς hómoios, "-like" and πάθος páthos, "suffering"). Based on this, Hahnemann postulated the key principle of Homoeopathy, the Law of Similars, logically evolving it as an experimental science, according to the method of inductive reasoning after exact observation, correct interpretation, rational explanation and scientific construction.

(vii) Sowa-Rig-pa (Amchi Medicine)

Sowa Rigpa “Science of Healing,” is one of the oldest traditional medical systems in the world, with roots tracing back thousands of years. The term Sowa Rigpa is derived from the Bhoti or Tibetan language, where “Sowa” means “healing” and “Rigpa” means “knowledge” or “science.” Together, the term signifies “the knowledge of healing” Practitioners of this ancient medical tradition are known as Amchi or Menpa.

The fundamental text book of Sowa-Rigpa is the Four Tantras (rGyud-bZhi in Tibetan or Chatush Tantra in Sanskrit). According to Sowa-Rigpa, rGyud-bZhi teachings were originally imparted by Bhagwan Buddha near Bodh Gaya in the sacred forest of Sudarshan Van, later on it was propagated by his disciples. Over the centuries, Sowa Rigpa has flourished across the Himalayan belt, including regions such as Ladakh, Sikkim, Arunachal Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh, and parts of Nepal, Bhutan, and Tibet.

The theoretical framework of Sowa Rigpa is deeply rooted in Buddhist philosophy, emphasizing principles such as interdependence, karma, love, and compassion. It is built upon several core concepts:

- The Five Elements (Byung-ba lnga): Earth, Water, Fire, Air, and Space, which form the basis of all matter and living beings.
- The Three Humours (Nyes-pa gsum): Wind (rLung), Bile (mKhris-pa), and Phlegm (Bad-kan), which govern physiological and psychological functions.
- The Seven Bodily Constituents (Lus-zungs bdun): Essential bodily tissues including nutritional essence, blood, muscle, fat, bone, marrow, and reproductive fluids.
- The Three Excretions (Dri-ma gsum): Urine, feces, and sweat, which help eliminate waste and toxins from the body.

Sowa Rigpa holds that the root cause of all human suffering and disease lies in ignorance (ma-rig-pa) and the three afflictive emotions—desire, hatred, and delusion. These inner imbalances disrupt the harmony of the three humours, leading to the manifestation of various physical and mental ailments.

Preventive healthcare plays a vital role in Sowa Rigpa. The system places great emphasis on proper diet, lifestyle, seasonal routines, and mental discipline as key to maintaining health and preventing disorders. Each individual's constitution is taken into consideration, with personalized recommendations provided to harmonize the elements and humours within the body.

Today, Sowa Rigpa continues to be practiced and taught in traditional institutes and is recognized as a formal system of medicine in several countries. Its holistic approach, integrating body, mind, and environment, makes it not only a healing science but also a path to spiritual and physical well-being.

SECTION 6: INTEGRATION OF AYUSH IN THE HEALTH CARE SYSTEM UNDER NATIONAL HEALTH MISSION (NHM)

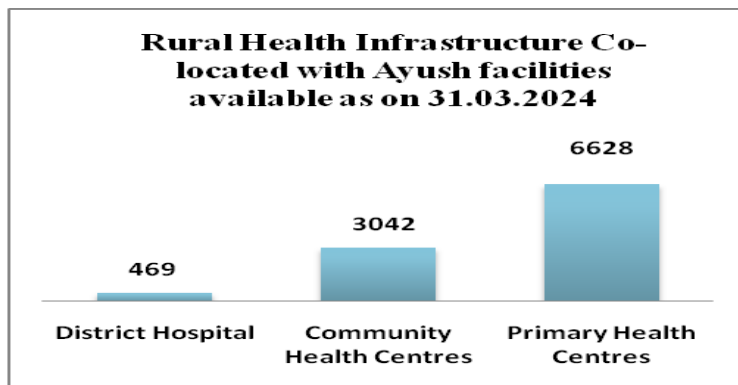

After the launch of National Health Mission (NHM), an initiative has been taken by the Department of Health & Family Welfare and Ministry of Ayush for strengthening of health care facilities at all levels by integrating Ayush systems in national health care delivery systems under NHM.

Physical and functional integration of Ayush systems in NHM is most important strategy of mainstreaming under NHM. Integration is facilitated by appointing or co-locating Ayush doctors & supporting staff and creating infrastructure according to local needs. Ayush doctors who are being appointed are used to facilitate management of programmes, monitoring and effective implementation of various interventions under NHM.

There are 764 District Hospitals (DHs), 6090 Community Health Centres (CHCs) and 26526 Primary Health Centres (PHCs) in rural areas in 767 districts, 3606 blocks and 707863 villages in India as on March, 2024.

SECTION 8 AYUSH RELATED FOREIGN TRADE

The export and import of Ayush related products takes place under the Indian Trade Classification based on Harmonized System of Coding (ITCHS) through 74 HS codes. However, it may be noted that most of the Products of Ayurveda, Homoeopathic, Siddha, Sowa Rigpa and Unani systems, Herbal Products and Medicinal Plant products are not identified under specific HS Codes (International Harmonised Commodity Description and Coding System), hence the actual quantum of exports and imports is expected to be at a higher side than figures reported under 74 HS Codes.

The India's total export value of Ayush related products increased from Rs.5392 crores in FY 19 to Rs.10790 crores in FY23 (100% increase).

The India's total import value of Ayush related products increased from Rs.2269 crores in FY 19 to Rs.3803 crores in FY23 (67% increase).
